

The Sun Thursday 12 April 2012

The kids at St Paul's Whitechapel Primary School in Wapping, east London, absolutely loved getting to grips with our fantastic Hold Ye Front Page website.

Eleven-year-old Arif Rahman adores space and was fascinated to read about the discovery of Uranus. He said: "Being able to watch the videos makes it much more fun than a textbook. I can see the rings turning round, it's really cool! Sometimes when I'm reading a book I get bored and end up stopping, but there's lots to do on here."

Nadia Ahmed, ten, watched a video about the New York terror attacks of September 11, 2001. She said: "I was only one when this happened, I don't remember it at all. I've heard my parents talking about it but I didn't know the reasons behind it before."

Fun ... students at St Paul's Whitechapel Primary School are introduced to the website [picture by Dan Jones]

Footie fan Fahim Khan, ten, was intrigued to find out more about England's glorious 1966 World Cup victory. He said: "It's great to see England winning. I also read about the invention of the TV. I can't imagine living without one. It must have been really boring."

Sadia Kuddus, ten, loved reading about the Normans. She said: "It's written in a fun way. There are loads of funny jokes which makes it better than reading a book. I like that you can watch the videos as well."

Nazifa Begum, 11, thought the website was well-designed. She said: "It's easy to get around and the history is fun to read. I could definitely use this to do my homework. There's loads of information on here."